Number in Line

Fourth ward girls and Edgely boys were "the tops" in the annual Youth Week parade, held here Saturday afternoon, in which, according to the official count, 1449 youths participated, 95 less than the number officially stated last year.

Croydon led the eight districts, having the greatest number in line of march, the total from the town to the west of Bristol being 282. Fifth ward was a close second, with 280.

The Youth Week parade of 1936 was more colorful than in previous years, the efforts of the ward leaders to aid to the attractiveness of their repre-

Voters To Pick Candidates At Primary Tomorrow

Pennsylvania voters will go to the polls tomorrow to cast their votes in a primary election which will elect the president, delegates to the Republican and Democratic national conventions in June.

Candidates also will be chosen for two state fiscal officers and vacancies in the House.

To fill a legislative vacancy, a representative and two Senators will be elected.

In the presidential field, voters will express their choice of three candidates. Senator William E. Borah is the only Republican candidate who will appear on the ballot. On the Democratic side, interest is focused on the "protest" vote that may go to Colonel Henry Breckinridge, New York Constitutional Democrat, who has filed his candidacy in opposition to President Roosevelt.

Sixty-eight district delegates to the conventions will be chosen by both parties.

The polls will open at 8 a. m., and close at 8 p. m., d. s. t.

Morrisville To Give Stockham Good Vote

MORRISVILLE, Apr. 27.—Morrisville Republicans plan to give Mayor Thomas B. Stockham a large complimentary vote tomorrow for the General Assembly. Although he has no opposition for the nomination to the Legislature, residents here say that because of his long experience in public life he is a very well fitted man for that office and the voters of Morrisville should all get back of him in this campaign. Although it was his first term in the Assembly when he served at the last session, he was honored by his party caucus because of his speaking ability, to speak on the floor against certain tax measures.

Mayor Stockham has served his home community as Mayor for more than a dozen years and he has also served on the school board, and during all that time he has always worked for the interests of the citizens of the community.

At a meeting of the Republican Club here, Mr. Stockham was strongly endorsed along with Assemblyman Yeckel for re-election. The club also endorsed Theodore Gardner for Congress and all the other candidates who have been endorsed by the Republican county organization.

BRISTOL'S YOUTH WEEK

(First Prize Award in Essay Contest, Bristol Youth Week, 1936)

With the passing of the past severe winter, followed by the devastating floods, the State of Pennsylvania is rejoicing at the advent of Spring.

The boys and girls of Bristol are also looking forward in happy anticipation to the pleasures in store for them during Youth Week which will be held here during the week of April 26th.

Although we are young we do try to realize the sacrifice that our parents, ward leaders, athletic instructors, business men and towns-people, as a whole are making in our behalf; the expense they are incurring, the patience, time and labor required in sponsoring Bristol's Youth Week.

On the day of the parade, however, looking at the happy faces of the children, especially when they reach the refreshment stand, our good citizens must feel proud of them and realize their time and money was not spent in vain.

Childhood stands for happiness and the boys and girls who can look back to happy childhood days can better stand the trials they meet in later life.

Youth's Week is educational and promotes a better understanding between the adult and the child. The older boys and girls are given an opportunity to realize the responsibilities in store for them and enable them to meet emergencies better.

Personally, I was a little boy in first grade when Boys' Week was first started here, back in 1927. I have never missed a parade and deeply regret this will be my last year. Boys' Week and Youth Week have benefited me and I know all the other boys and girls will say the same.

We want all those who help us in any way during Youth Week to know we appreciate their efforts in our behalf and we will repay them, we hope, in the years to come.

May Almighty God help us boys and girls to take our places in the civic life of our town as our forefathers have done. May He enlighten our minds to understand our duties, clarify our vision to see into the future to benefit our citizens, endow us with hearts tempered with mercy, yet staunch enough to perform our tasks well. And to keep our hands clean in politics so that we may grasp the wheel and pilot good old Bristol to prosperity, peace and contentment, that under our future guidance she may still retain the high standing in the ranks of Pennsylvania towns that she enjoys today.

We thank you for Youth Week. It helps us now; it will help you later.

THEODORE R. GARDNER

THEODORE R. GARDNER NEEDED IN CONGRESS

Assistance is Required to Uproot the Wastefulness of the Administration

EXCELLENT CANDIDATE

In our national situation two facts are self-evident. The first is that the problems which have been thrust upon this Nation are problems which only can be reached and remedied by Congress. The second is that these frightful policies which are wasting the resources of the Nation and dissipating the substance of our people, are now so deeply entrenched that they cannot be uprooted by one, or even two or three sessions of Congress.

There was a time, not so far back, when this great national contest of next November had to be pioneered by men and women whose party loyalty and faith in historic American principles had to far outweigh their hopes of immediate success. Outstanding among those who did not balk at this self-sacrifice was Theodore R. Gardner, of Lehigh county.

Two years ago, when the New Deal was at the height of its influence, Mr. Gardner was the unanimous choice of the outstanding Republicans of Lehigh county for the Republican nomination for Congress. The fact that he was a young man was regarded as one of his greatest assets, and the argument in this respect was, that our problems being what they are, coupled with the likelihood that several years will elapse before the Republicans can come into control of the Senate, Mr. Gardner possessed a life expectancy which would enable him, by successive re-elections, to gain the knowledge, the experience and the prestige of continued service which would make him an invaluable asset to his party and his constituency alike.

Mr. Gardner campaigned in Bucks county, and these arguments, combined with his character and evident ability, so impressed the Republicans of Bucks that in the November Election of 1934 they gave him a substantial majority.

Mr. Gardner possesses the same qualifications today that he did two years ago, and he has been actuated by a sense of service, not merely a personal quest for public office. But, strangely enough, he is being opposed for the Republican nomination in the approaching Primary by one who was foremost among those who prevailed upon him to make the canvass, under far less promising circumstances, two years ago.

Shall the man who was willing to carry the standard in 1934, be turned down now because others desire to step in when they see the assurance of Republican victory in this contest?

Mr. Gardner's acknowledged ability and straightforward integrity should induce all the Republican voters of Bucks county to mark their ballot for him at the Primary Election on April 28th.

BOONDOGLING IS TO BE MAJOR ISSUE OF THE CAMPAIGN

CORRUPTION FUND

Those Forced to Earn Livelihood on WPA Work Must Be Democrats

HARRISBURG, Apr. 27.—It is becoming increasingly evident, as the campaign warms up in Pennsylvania, that one of the major issues and the source of damaging announcement to be hurled at the free spending Democrats, is how much of the taxpayers' money "Eddie" Jones is wasting on boondoggling WPA projects and political activities.

Jones, who glories in the title of "State Administrator, Works Progress Administration," takes his orders direct from Senator "Joe" Guffey and State Chairman "Dave" Lawrence via Governor Earle. To all others in Harrisburg and throughout the Commonwealth he stubbornly refuses to disclose how much of relief funds are being outrageously diverted to serve as a Democratic corruption fund.

Unfortunate citizens forced to earn a livelihood on WPA work are feeling the iron heel of oppression, in many instances being compelled to register as Democrats under pain of dismissal. In every county in Pennsylvania are thousands of these workmen who sullenly submit to the lash of practical politics but only await the secrecy of the polling booth to register their real opinion of Czar Jones and his unprincipled hirelings in the Guffey-Earle-Lawrence plunderbund.

FARM WRECKING POLICY

By Representative Francis D. Culkin of New York

The country has witnessed, under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, the disbursement of a billion and a half dollars for the purpose of annually retiring thirty-five million acres from production for the avowed intent of obtaining parity prices for agriculture. The country has witnessed at the same time and in the same years the extraordinary and remarkable spectacle of the Federal Government entering upon what will amount to an ultimate disbursement of one billion, five hundred million dollars, in order to bring four million acres into production. The history of civilization presents no conflict of policy so stupid as this.

The farmers in my district complain to me that they were being destroyed in the New York, Philadelphia and Chicago markets by competition from products grown on Government reclaimed lands. I made an investigation on the subject and came to the conclusion that not only were the farmers of New York State being wrecked by this fatal procedure, but that the farmers of the West and Southwest were also being driven to the wall.

Putting these four million acres into production will further handicap the already grievous situation of the dairymen, and destroy the California growers of soft fruit, including pears, peaches and apricots, and will destroy the Oregon and Idaho farmers by new planting of apples and potatoes. It will furnish additional and destructive competition to the fruit growers of Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, the New England States, Ohio, Michigan and southern Illinois. Putting these lands into production will seriously affect the present difficult situation of the wheat and corn farmers in Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Every foot of land reclaimed reduces the value of the existing farm acreage. A real dirt farmer in the state of Washington said:

"The placing of more lands under irrigation at this time is nothing short of confiscation of the homes and ranches of those people who have already invested their life savings in this state."

YOUTHS WANTED FOR ROBBERY THUMBED CAR OF DETECTIVE

Pair Picked Up on Bristol Pike
After Two Pals Had Been Arrested

CONFESSION IS ALLEGED

Robbed Poor Boxes in Two Churches On Easter
Sunday

Two Philadelphia youths, who are alleged to have broken into and robbed numerous places as well as having been implicated in the theft of several automobiles, unwittingly thumbed the wrong car on the Bristol Pike this morning and were given a "lift" to the Bristol police station by Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo and Bristol Township Constable Joseph Seaders. They and two other companions are being detained here awaiting further investigation and identification of other municipalities.

The four, according to Detective Russo, have admitted robberies in Bucks County, Chester and the theft of three automobiles, they having stated that they stole a car each time that they went out to commit a job.

Among the places robbed was the St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Croydon, where the poor boxes were ripped from their fastenings and the money shaken out through the slots in the top of the boxes.

St. Michael's Church, Andalusia, was also robbed. Those being held here, all of whom have been finger-printed are:

Albert Morgan, 17, 2430 E. Fifth street.

George Placher, 20, 2412 N. Waterloo street.

Harris Kelly, 19, 2405 E. Gordon street.

John McMullin, 17, 1933 N. Palethorpe street.

It is believed that the boys have made frequent trips into Bucks County; after breaking and entering into a number of places, would go back into Philadelphia, and remain in hiding for a time. Then they would come out again and make another haul.

This morning about two o'clock Kelly and Placher were taken into custody as they sat in a car near the gas station of Ernest Tisher, Bristol Pike, Croydon. The gas station had been broken into for the second time in two weeks, it having been robbed on April 12th, Easter Sunday. The car is reported as having been stolen from Philadelphia and is a new Studebaker coach.

The officers went to the Tisher station after Constable Seader had been called and informed that the station had been robbed.

HOMESICK FOR FORMER DAYS?

Is America homesick for the conditions of former days? Earnest Elmo Calkins sees signs of such a feeling, such as the use of advertising methods of former years, and a certain desire for the simpler and less complicated conditions of those times.

Life in America has been turned upside down. Automobiles, radios, and moving pictures have perhaps been the principal elements in these changes. People may think they would like to return to the life of the so-called "good old days." They talk with a certain envy of the "Gay Nineties." But if the car owners had to give up their machines, the pictures goers and radio listeners their entertainment, they would find life desolate.

In those former times, not so much was expected of people. It was not necessary to strain and sweat to acquire the money for automobiles and automobile jaunts, to buy radios and attend the pictures constantly. When it does not take so much money to live, life is easier.

The former days were perhaps superior to our present conditions in some ways. People could amuse themselves more easily in those days. The young people were content to sit on the front porch and sing college songs, which didn't cost them a nickel, where now they have to spend $5 or $10 or more to satisfy their restless desires for an evening.

In some way people are showing this homesickness by giving up expensive pleasures. The quartet playing bridge quietly in the parlor, instead of burning up gasoline on some long run, must look very much like the "Gay Nineties" party contending at old-fashioned "high-low-jack."

KEEPING PIONEER SPIRIT

The founders of this country performed their wonders because they were people of faith and vision, who were willing to strike out in new directions, build new communities, and take some chances. They believed in their own powers, and had faith that their efforts would be rewarded.

There is always a danger, when communities become settled and permanent, that people will lose this fine pioneer and achieving spirit, that they will settle down in some rut of deadly routine, and make little effort to improve it. But if they take that attitude, they can't keep what they have, but will gradually fall into decadence.

We must retain the old pioneer spirit, in our business, our work, our community life. We must be willing not merely to work hard, but to strike out for new things and remove the obstacles to development.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol, Oct. 22, 1874. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

Edward P. Sipler, formerly a resident of Morrisville, met with a terrible death in the Washington Navy Yard, on Saturday, the 10th inst. The Trenton Gazette says that Mr. Sipler had charge of the large circular saw used for cutting heavy timbers. While adjusting the guides of the saw, which was running at a rate of 800 revolutions a minute, he missed his stroke, when the weight of the hammer-head, which he was holding in front of the saw, which instantaneously cut off his head and next his right arm. The few horror-stricken employees endeavored to render assistance but another revolution cut his body in twain above the hips.

On last Tuesday evening Mrs. H. K. Brouse, the daughter of Lewis Wharton, Esq., and Mrs. William Sargent took their departure for the West. Mrs. Brouse's future residence will be at Alton, Mercer county, Illinois, where her husband has recently been called by a congregation to take charge of a new church established at that place. Mrs. Sargent goes to St. Paul, Minn.

The seventh annual convention of the Bucks County Sunday School Association was held in Grace Church, Hulmeville, on Wednesday, the 14th inst., a large number of delegates from the various Sunday Schools of the county being present. The president of the association, E. G. Harrison, called the convention to order at 10:30 a. m. Rev. Mr. Conrad, of Davisville, conducted the devotional exercises. Rev. Mr. Brinkloe, pastor of Grace Church, made an address of welcome. Rev. G. C. Bush, of Newtown, opened the question of "Duty of Parents and Teachers," and was followed by Messrs. Conrad, Shields, Voorhees, and others.

"THERE'S MURDER IN THE AIR"

by ROY CHANSLOR

CHAPTER XXIII

When David had departed, Tyler took Ruth to her room and then returned to the house to see Nat. First he told him about his talk with Carotta in the garden. Nat was deeply puzzled.

"Do you think she was really trying to protect Doris—or very subtly trying to incriminate her?" he asked.

"I wish I knew," Tyler sighed.

Then he told him of Ruth's latest warning, of the conversation with Dr. Karase, the decision to take Helene to Dr. Peters' sanitarium, and Doris' instantaneous reaction against it.

"That's perfectly natural," said Nat defensively. "She is terribly fond of Helene. She doesn't want her that far away."

Tyler shrugged. Nat glanced at him, hesitated, then said: "I—I suppose you know about—Doris and me?"

Tyler smiled.

"It's fairly obvious," he said.

"Then you can understand my position," said Nat. "I—I'm a prejudiced observer, of course. She couldn't have done anything like this. And yet appearances—some one is trying to make it look as if she—don't you see how impossible it is?"

"I know how you feel," said Tyler. "Let me ask you something. From your experience with mental cases, would you say there was any sign of derangement in any of these people?"

Nat shook his head.

"No," he said. "I'd say they were all normal people. Of course I haven't seen Helene since—since this shock. It's possible that such a shock to one so young, might—well, unbalance her mind temporarily. That might account for her delusions about Doris. Because they are delusions!"

"I wasn't speaking of Helene," said Tyler quietly. "I mean, could it be possible that one of the others—"

"You mean Doris?" Nat cried. "Mr. Tyler, it's utterly impossible for me to suspect her!"

"I know," said Tyler sympathetically. "But if she's—"

"Please!" said Nat.

"Ruth says that when you fell through those curtains—there was a terrible pain in your heart," said Tyler gently. "And a name in your mind—her name."

Nat nodded.

"It—it was an awful shock to see her standing there," he admitted. "I suppose there did flash across my mind. . . . But now, I simply can't encompass the possibility, that she—Only insanity could drive her to such a thing. And—well, I'm sure that Doris is not insane."

There was a low knock at the door. Tyler went to it. Johnson stood in the hallway. He looked at Tyler inquiringly.

"Could I have a word with you, gentlemen?" he asked.

"Certainly," said Tyler. "Come in."

Johnson closed the door behind him carefully and advanced to Nat's bedside.

"I don't know exactly how best to begin—" he said.

"Speak freely," Tyler urged.

Johnson looked at Tyler steadily.

"I'm not a fool," he said. "I know that everything points to this attack on Miss Helene being made from inside the house. And since it's incredible that Mr. David or Miss Doris or Mrs. Gordon could be involved—that puts it squarely up to me."

"Do you think the attack was from the inside?" asked Tyler quietly.

"What else can any sensible person think?" asked Johnson. "Mr. Tyler, I've spent sixteen years with this family. I've seen those children grow up. I love them. I'd gladly give my life for any of them. And here I am in a position that would cause anyone but those fine people to suspect me."

"I'm sure they don't," said Tyler. "Do you, sir?" asked Johnson.

"I suspect no one," said Tyler calmly. "And everyone."

Johnson looked at Nat, who nodded in agreement.

"I—I feel that I've got to clear myself," said Johnson. "I want to help you. I'd want to anyhow, of course. Let me tell you what kind of a man Mr. Gordon is. Last year, when I had completed fifteen years of service, he called me in, told me that he had invested the sum of fifty thousand dollars for me, and suggested that I retire."

"That was generous," commented Nat.

"He's the most generous man alive," said Johnson warmly. "I have no life outside of this household, gentlemen. I wouldn't know what to do with myself. I refused to retire. But he insisted on my taking the benefit of the investment. I have no need of money. I've no one but myself. I—I'd like to make that money available to you—to help clear this thing up."

"Thank you, Johnson," said Tyler. "That won't be necessary. But he'll be glad to have your help."

He rose and extended his hand.

"You—called me—dear," she said. "Oh, Nat, you do love me!"

Johnson, seemingly much affected, took it.

"Thank you, sir," he said. "You'll call on me—for anything?"

"We will," said Tyler.

Johnson bowed and left the room. Tyler stared after him thoughtfully.

"That man's either a consummate actor—or"

"Or utterly and touchingly faithful," Nat finished. "Which do you think?"

"I wish I knew," said Tyler.

While Helene was being prepared for the journey, Dr. Grace visited Nat, looked at the wound, nodded with satisfaction and changed the dressing.

"Any reason why I shouldn't get up?" Nat asked.

"I think not," said Dr. Grace. "But take it very easy. I'll drop in some time tomorrow."

Dr. Grace bade him good day, then, and went to find Johnson to ask him to assist Nat to dress. This was managed without too much difficulty, and Nat descended to the living-room. There was no one else there. He stepped out into the warm sunshine, strolled across the garden to the fountain.

Here, only a few hours ago, he had held Doris in his arms. He sat on one of the benches, facing the fountain. He closed his eyes, pictured her as she had been in the moonlight. Then, like an evil dream, he saw her again as he had seen her when he had fallen into her room, standing in the open doorway with dilated eyes. Resolutely he shut that vision from his mind.

Presently he heard voices, glanced across the garden and lawn, saw them all come out on the porch, group about Helene. He rose hurriedly and went toward them.

She was utterly unresponsive. Tyler and Gordon helped her into one of the big cars, took seats on either side of her. The chauffeur started down the driveway. Dr. Grace followed in his car.

The group on the porch waved and Tyler waved back, reassuringly. Carotta excused herself and went into the house. Johnson walked off toward the main gate. Doris turned to Nat.

"I'm—glad to see you're up, Nat," she said. "How do you feel?"

HULMEVILLE—Charles Walton, of this place, was seriously injured a few days ago while digging a well on the farm of Theodore White, above Attleboro. Mr. Walton and his son were engaged in putting in a blast, and the son not being strong enough to draw up his father with the windlass, a ladder was placed in the well with the top of it resting against the windlass. As the boy was coming up the ladder it slipped off the windlass, and the boy was thrown backward a distance of 23 feet, in falling, he called to his father, who caught him in his arms. The ladder in sliding off the windlass, struck a piece of board, which also followed the boy in his downward course, striking his father on the left eye and knocking him insensible. Help was soon at hand, and the injured man was attended to and is at present doing well. The boy escaped with a slight scratch on his hand.

NEWPORTVILLE—A meeting of the colored citizens of Bensalem was held at Jerusalem on last Friday evening, for the purpose of thoroughly organizing themselves to withstand the assaults of the untutored in November.

Mr. W. H. Purvis was called to the chair, and appropriate remarks made by several speakers.

The question under discussion last Saturday evening at the Lyceum, was argued affirmatively by Mr. DeWitt and negatively by Messrs. Ramsey and Kirkbride, and was decided negatively.

ENTERTAIN F. P. A.

The Daughters of America, Council 58, entertained the Fraternal Patriotic Americans in the F. P. A. Hall, Friday evening. The evening was enjoyed playing pinocle and hokum. Mrs. Jennie Decker and Eleanor Dyer were high scorers in pinocle, and Ethel Keers tied for high score in hokum. A covered dish supper was served following the cards. About 40 were present.

Youths Wanted For Robbery Thumbed Car of Detective

Seaders received his message from Ray Pray, Croydon, whose attention was attracted by a parked automobile. He and Seaders apprehended the two boys sitting in the car. They were brought to Bristol and Detective Russo called. Russo and Seader then learned that two others were implicated and went in search of them.

Morgan and McMullin were found walking along the Pike about three feet apart and both "thumbed" the Russo car asking for a ride.

The officers then drove down the Bristol Pike in search of Morgan and McMullin. As they were driving along between Cornwells Heights and Andalusia, two youths "thumbed" them, asking for a ride. Russo and Seaders stopped the car and took the two boys in, questioned them and then brought them back to Bristol.

The four were questioned throughout the night and finally signed confessions, in which it is said they admit robbing St. Michael's Church, Andalusia, on Easter Sunday; St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Croydon, twice; Tisher's gas station, Croydon, twice; two places in Chester, and having stolen three cars from Philadelphia.

All four have been finger-printed and descriptions forwarded to other cities.

High School Relay Team Finishes Sixth In Meet

Zefferi in leading off for the Cardinal and Gray was well up in front at the first turn when a Perth Amboy representative attempted to pass him. The latter spiked Zefferi, tearing off the Bristol runner's shoe. Zefferi was forced to finish the lap with but one foot shod.

It was unfortunate for Zefferi inasmuch as it is his last year in competition, but he showed his true wares and had the courage and fortitude to finish his race although he was the victim of an unfortunate accident at the beginning of the run.

Hoffman, running second for the locals, moved up on two opponents and was ninth when he handed the baton to O'Boyle.

O'Boyle moved up two more notches in the standings and when Jack Gill, Bristol's anchor man, received the stick, the Cardinal and Gray were in seventh position.

Gill passed another man in the stretch to give the Bunnies their sixth spot.

The aforementioned accident was indeed unfortunate in the fact that the winning time run by Princeton's Orange and Black did not exceed the best time of the local quartet. The four lads today had run the course in 2:38, while the winning time today was 2:38.5.

EDGELY

Mr. M. Glerum has purchased a new Ford V-8.

Fourth Ward Girls, Edgely Boys Are Judged Best

sentative boys and girls, eliciting favorable comments and plaudits from the side-lines. More color was introduced in the line of march on Saturday, the combination of colors being well chosen. Novel ideas found outlet, with the result that the parade of 36 will live in the memories of residents of Bristol, Edgely and Croydon, for years to come.

Many of the districts had groups especially costumed, and those which had previously won cups or banners carried these in the parade.

Third largest number in the line of march was from sixth ward, the total being 216; next was fourth ward, 200; first ward, 132; Edgely, 129; second ward, 109; and third ward, 101.

Serving as marshal was the veteran in this capacity locally, Walter P. Leedom, who rode in a coupe, accompanied by his grandson, Walter Cadwalader, in Boy Scout garb, the car being operated by Mr. Leedom's granddaughter, Miss Frances Cadwalader, both of Yardley. Two officers from the South Langhorne barracks of the state highway patrol, led the parade, (ment) followed by three members of the Bristol Riding Club, mounted. Then came the borough official escort in the persons of police chief Linford J. Jones, and fire chief Clifford Hagerman. The St. Francis Industrial School band followed, leading the six districts, while further back in the line of march were the American Legion Cadets.

Edgely was the first district in line, three Girl Scouts marching in the vanguard, followed by the Edgely girls wearing white dresses, blue hats, blue shoulder straps and belts. The boys from the same district wore long white trousers, white blouses, and blue hats. The hats of all Edgely representatives had white feathers.

Croydon delegation was led by two color-bearers who bore aloft a banner of maroon and gold on which the name of "Croydon" appeared. The banner was guarded by a group of girls who wore high maroon hats, with gold trim, and shields in the same tones. Dresses of white were trimmed with maroon and gold. The "gym" suits included maroon bloomers, white sweaters on which a red "C" appeared. The girls' baseball team was also in line of march; while the Croydon senior boys' baseball team, 1936 Youth Week champions, wore socks, sweat shirts and caps of maroon, with their new uniforms, presented this year by the Croydon Fathers and Mothers Association. They carried aloft a sign which told the watchers that Croydon lads were champion baseball players this season. The remainder of the boys from Croydon wore white blouses, dark trousers, maroon and gold hats. The members of the Bucks County Junior Rescue Squad followed.

A detail of girls riding bicycles led the first ward aggregation. The "cyclists" had bicycles trimmed with red crepe paper. All girls of the first ward wore aprons of red crepe paper, a new departure here in marching outfits. The boys had red regalia and vari-colored hats, the end of their groups being brought up with "cyclists."

The second ward girls wore shoulder straps of red, white and blue, red berets with large figures "2" on the top in white. The boys had neck and shoulder straps, with four distinct groups being formed. One group wore yellow, the second, orange; third, blue, and fourth, rose.

The third ward was led by three "sailors" on bicycles. The girls of this ward had donned blue trunks which featured red buttons; and wore white blouses. Leading this group of girls were four girl officials who wore dresses in white slacks, blue tops and white sailor hats. The girls were followed by the boys of this ward.

White and green predominated in the color scheme of the fourth ward. The banner was in these tones, and the boys and girls kept in straight lines by means of green and white crepe paper streamers, carried the full length of the line on each side. The girls were in white, with shoulder straps and sash, as well as hair-rosettes of green. The boys had a large bicycle brigade, and the remainder of the lads from this ward had green paper hats and arm bands.

The ten banners secured by the fifth ward in years past for having the largest number in the parade, were proudly borne aloft on Saturday by representatives of this district. The girls were led by two young women in black satin male attire with high black silk hats. The black suits were set off by touches of a rose shade. These two acted as escorts to a young woman impersonating a Scotch lassie.

A tiny May Queen was seated in a small gaily-decorated wagon, drawn by her court retinue. There followed May pole dancers each clinging to the vari-colored streamers attached to a May pole, carried aloft by one of the group. The other girls wore vari-colored hats and shoulder straps; and the boys of this ward had cross shoulder straps of a pink shade.

A bicycle brigade also led the sixth ward marchers, with a pony drawing a cart following the "cyclists." The girls had donned red hats on which were the numeral "6." The girls also wore shoulder straps of red. Some of the boys from the sixth ward carried a large American flag, and the other boys from the sixth ward had hats of blue with the figure "6" on same in solid tone. The shoulder straps of these lads were also in blue.

Serving in the capacity of judges were: Mrs. William Rumpf, Jr., South Langhorne; Mrs. Harry Pope, the Rev. S. Brooks Knowlton, Charles Moerman, Bristol; Lester Shoemaker, Tullytown. The official enumerater was John Black.

Hundreds of residents of Bristol and nearby towns lined the curbs and watched the parade from porches and windows. American flags fluttered from many of the homes, waving a greeting to youth of the three towns.

The route of the parade which formed at Farragut avenue and Monroe street, was under the following course: Farragut, Pond, Jefferson, Radcliffe, Mill, Bath, Buckley, Beaver to the Leedom field, where refreshments were served.

Boondoggling Is To Be Major Issue of The Campaign

vey Taylor is in possession of numerous affidavits sworn to by employees of the WPA setting forth in detail how they have been coerced by politically-minded foremen and others to swear allegiance to the Democratic party or else be supplanted by others willing to serve the freebooters first and the taxpayers afterwards.

United States Senator James J. Davis has received a number of these affidavits and others are being forwarded to his Washington office by Chairman Taylor with a demand for a free and impartial investigation. Senator Davis has pledged his earnest co-operation.

Indicative of how WPA is being used for political purposes by the New Dealers was revealed Wednesday in Philadelphia. Abraham J. Levinson, a legislative candidate in the Thirty-second ward in that city, named John E. Sheridan, secretary of the Kelly-McCloskey controlled city committee, as being active against the principles of President Roosevelt, who has barred politics in public work projects. With a factional row on in the ward, Levinson alleges Sheridan is using WPA to displace Magistrate William Hess as co-leader.

Levinson further asserted that Charles J. Lyons, a WPA official, appeared at a meeting of the Thirty-second ward Democratic executive committee and declared that party workers loyal to Sheridan would be placed on designated projects.

Another outstanding case of politics in WPA has been bared in an open letter by Benjamin Barnes, secretary of the Workers' Affiliated Benefit Union, who charges that workers are being discriminated against and that Democrats are using the WPA to build up a political machine in Beaver and Greene counties.

"To accomplish this," says Barnes, "WPA officials are carrying on a campaign of intimidation designed to cause every worker to fear the loss of his job and they violate every rule laid down by Washington for the protection of workers."

In an address in Allentown, Stephen Raushenbush, chairman of the Pennsylvania Security League and counsel for the Nye senatorial munitions committee, criticized WPA Director Jones before about 500 striking WPA workers and their friends. He said that Jones has been making an attack on the leader of WPA groups in the state—Raushenbush himself. In speaking of the circular sent out to WPA foremen and timekeepers by Jones which assailed Raushenbush, State Republican Chairman M. Harvey Taylor and Pinchot, the Security League head said that "Jones tosses a brick bat at me to hit you full in the face." Raushenbush has demanded that Federal Works Administrator Hopkins oust Jones from office.

Another case in point is the recent action of representatives of WPA employees in Luzerne county who protested to Washington officials that they had been compelled by their foreman to buy tickets on an automobile to be raffled at a "Roosevelt Day" celebration. The delegation, headed by Martin M. McGuire, of White Haven, chairman of the Luzerne Unemployment League, also asserted shortages ranging from $1.41 to $14 had been found in the pay envelopes of the workers on their project last pay day.

Aside from obvious political set-ups in the W. P. A. there has been pointed criticism of pernicious activity in Governor Earle's own Capitol Hill departments. H. H. Chapman, President of the Society of American Foresters while praising the appointment of J. F. Bogardus as Secretary of Forests and Waters, who came into the department after Guffey and Lawrence had accomplished their set-up of practical politics there, renewed his criticism of the appointment of political ineffectuals to the State Forest service. At a meeting of the Allegheny section of the Society of American Foresters, Chapman labeled as "a destructive practice" the "current manner of making appointments to the forest service in Pennsylvania. Chapman declared that unless the practice engaged in by the Democratic plunderbund was terminated he could "feel very little confidence in the efficiency or the reputation of the Department of Forests and Waters." In a letter to Mr. Bogardus, Chapman recently wrote:

"I greatly regret, as you know, the roads that patronage has made on the organization. There are no patronage problems in the Department of Forests and Waters. The Lawrence Co-hunting expedition passed through his department long ago, sweeping everything in sight. Some of the appointees of the Forest Service, it is said, are so well versed in their new trade they think pineapples grow in pine trees."

The latest expose of politics in W. P. A. came only a few days ago when Thomas M. Kerrane, 6202 Baynton Street, Philadelphia, an unemployed disabled veteran, seeking employment on a government project, after many rebuffs, finally wrote to Senator "Joe" Guffey, the latter's secretary, R. H. Bailey, in a surprisingly frank reply succinctly advised Kerrane to "contact your local Democratic leaders with a view to having them recommend your appointment."

Another source of disturbance in Democratic circles in Pennsylvania is the lack of uniformity in wage scales on various W. P. A. projects. This is causing all

THEODORE R. GARDNER FOR CONGRESS

Two years ago, when the New Deal was at the height of its influence, Theodore R. Gardner of Lehigh County, was the unanimous choice of the outstanding Republicans of that County for the Republican nomination for Congress.

The fact he was a young man was regarded as one of his greatest assets, and the argument in this respect was, that our problems being what they are, coupled with the likelihood that several years will elapse before the Republicans can come into the control of the Senate, Mr. Gardner possessed a life expectancy which would enable him, by successive re-elections, to gain the knowledge, the experience and the prestige of continued service which would make him an invaluable asset to his party and his constituency alike.

Mr. Gardner campaigned in Bucks County, and these arguments, combined with his character and evident ability, so impressed the Republicans of Bucks County, that in the November Election of 1934 they gave him a substantial majority.

Mr. Gardner, a lawyer and United States Commissioner, born in Allentown, a graduate from Muhlenberg College and the University of Pennsylvania Law School, who served a two-year enlistment in the United States Navy, at the expiration of which he was honorably discharged, possesses the same qualifications today as he did two years ago, but strangely enough, he is being opposed for the Republican nomination at the approaching Primary by one who was foremost among those who prevailed upon him to make the canvass, two years ago and under far less promising circumstances.

Shall the man who was willing to carry the standard in 1934, be turned down now because others desire to step in when they see the assurance of Republican victory in this contest?

We ask your support of acknowledged ability, straightforward integrity and fair play, by marking your ballot for Theodore R. Gardner for Congress, at the Primary Election, Tuesday, April 28th.

THEODORE R. GARDNER FOR CONGRESS

Two years ago, when the New Deal was at the height of its influence, Theodore R. Gardner of Lehigh County, was the unanimous choice of the outstanding Republicans of that County for the Republican nomination for Congress.

The fact he was a young man was regarded as one of his greatest assets, and the argument in this respect was, that our problems being what they are, coupled with the likelihood that several years will elapse before the Republicans can come into the control of the Senate, Mr. Gardner possessed a life expectancy which would enable him, by successive re-elections, to gain the knowledge, the experience and the prestige of continued service which would make him an invaluable asset to his party and his constituency alike.

Mr. Gardner campaigned in Bucks County, and these arguments, combined with his character and evident ability, so impressed the Republicans of Bucks County, that in the November Election of 1934 they gave him a substantial majority.

Mr. Gardner, a lawyer and United States Commissioner, born in Allentown, a graduate from Muhlenberg College and the University of Pennsylvania Law School, who served a two-year enlistment in the United States Navy, at the expiration of which he was honorably discharged, possesses the same qualifications today as he did two years ago, but strangely enough, he is being opposed for the Republican nomination at the approaching Primary by one who was foremost among those who prevailed upon him to make the canvass, two years ago and under far less promising circumstances.

Shall the man who was willing to carry the standard in 1934, be turned down now because others desire to step in when they see the assurance of Republican victory in this contest?

We ask your support of acknowledged ability, straightforward integrity and fair play, by marking your ballot for Theodore R. Gardner for Congress, at the Primary Election, Tuesday, April 28th.

EIGHT BRISTOL BOYS TO APPEAR IN BOUTS HERE

Another of those cracker-jack boxing shows is in store for the fans of Bristol and vicinity tonight as the St. Ann's Athletic Association holds its bi-monthly affair in the Italian Mutual Aid arena, Wood street and Lincoln avenue. Ten mixed bouts are scheduled under the supervision of the Middle Atlantic District of the A. A. U.

At least eight Bristol boys will be scheduled to mix in bouts with opponents from Philadelphia. The Philadelphians are after revenge for in the last show Bristolians walked home with eight out of nine victories. Whether this is possible tonight remains to be seen, as Match-maker Patsy Moffo has booked all stiff opponents for the wearers of the local colors.

Vince Delia and Harry Davis, both popular localities, have drawn the hardest opponents, both being pitted against champions. Delia will fight Tony Surella, who was crowned 115 pound champion of the Camden tournament. Friday night, Surella is substituting for John Giordano. Seymour, who is ill, Davis will have as his foe, Frank Donofrio, 166 pound A. A. U. champion. Donofrio won his tilt two weeks ago in a Philadelphia tournament.

Davis does not fear Donofrio as he holds a victory over Huel Goodwin, former champion, and it was Goodwin whom Donofrio beat to capture the district tilt. Delia in his fight with Surella enters the squared circle with three straight knockouts to his credit.

Another bout which will draw considerable comment from the fans is the return match between Willie Leighton, Rescue Squad, and Carman Volio, Seymour. Leighton rallied to beat Volio two weeks ago here and now Volio is after Leighton. Volio was runner-up in the Camden tournament. Another return bout is that between the fighting little Irish boy, Lenny Dever, St. Ann's, and Salvatore Manzo, Mason. The fans of this section will never forget that amazing comeback of Dever a month ago when he came up from the floor three times to plaster Manzo all over the ring.

Donato Sciarra, known as Tally, will attempt a comeback tonight when he fights Frank Carpinelli. Seymour, Carpinelli was a runner-up in the recent Philadelphia A. A. U. tournament, and was a great favorite of the crowd. Sciarra has picked a tough foe for his comeback trial but feels confident of bowling over his Seymour opponent. Sciarra has been off for over three months, being on the sick list.

Jimmy Gallone has as his opponent, Marcus Polsky, Seymour, a southpaw warrior. Polsky has four straight wins to his credit while Gallone made his start last show with a two-round knockout. Tony Maglione, St. Ann's, will shoot for his fourth straight win when he tackles Joe Martino, Mason, in the third bout of the night.

Johnny Raccagno, the knock-out ace, will also attempt to win his fourth straight bout. Raccagno's foe is Johnny Rullo, Mason. The Bristol youth kayoed Rullo several weeks ago and now Rullo seeks revenge since he entered the semi-finals of the A. A. U. tournament. Phil Quici also has a Mason opponent, fighting Louis Burman, former Temple University boxing star.

A newcomer who has joined the St. Ann's ranks, Al Horn, of Newtown, will make his start against Frank Iaconelli, Mason. Horn has been training for two weeks in the St. Ann's gym and looks in tip-top shape for his opening number.

Match-maker Patsy Moffo feels that tonight will be another Bristol night and that six of the localities will capture victories. The first bout is scheduled for 8:15 p. m., sharp.

ATTEMPTS COME-BACK

TALLY SCIARRA

LANGHORNE OPPOSES HIGH SCHOOL IX TODAY

(By Jack Orr)

Bristol's Cardinal and Gray baseball nine meet Langhorne High School's strong aggregation in an important Lower Bucks County League contest today at the local high school field.

The two clubs are deadlocked for first position in the loop with three wins and nary a loss. One of the teams is sure of dropping out of this select category today.

Coach Howard Beck, of Langhorne, has his choice of Bill Carter or Jake McCahan, to toss against the locals. While Billy Gallagher or Hystie Grimes will scale the peak for the Bunnies.

The Langhorne twirler will be caught by Jake Stradling, southpaw backstop and a reputedly good one, while Jesse VanZant will be the receiver for the Cardinal and Gray.
